5 TIPS TO IMPROVE YOUR CRITICAL THINKING

Critical thinking helps us in making better and efficient decisions. It helps us deconstruct a situation and find the hidden issues like bias and manipulation.

The five tips to improve your critical thinking includes formulating your own question which means knowing what you are looking for. The next is to gather information, it helps to reach towards the goal easily. Followed by applying the information by asking yoursely critical questions. This includes questioning your assumptions, interpretations and concepts. The next tip is to consider the implications of your decisions, to think about different outcomes. The last tip is to explore other point of views. This helps us to evaluate our own choices and make more informed decisions.

However, this can't completely eradicate difficult decisions but can increase the number of positive choices we make. If enough of us use it, then it has the power to make the world a reasonable place
